

ABSTRACT

A biological molecule biochip that supports biological molecules between a first member (1) and a second member (2); in either the first 5 member (1) or the second member (2), by forming a plurality of grooves in parallel in a face that makes contact with the other member, a plurality of spaces are provided that become reaction regions.